

Dear Colleague,

Since the arrival of the global pandemic just over a year ago, the world has changed at a faster pace than usual as countries and businesses have adapted to the ever evolving 'new normal.' The Nigerian oil and gas industry has also had to navigate an environment coloured by oil production cuts, lower oil prices and a slowdown in industry activities.

At dmG Nigeria events, our commitment to delivering safe and secure in person conferences and exhibitions that provide unrivalled opportunities to hear and engage on new policy announcements and explore investment opportunities, has been all the more reinforced by the need to strengthen the energy sector for economic growth, competitiveness and recovery.

In preparation for the 20th edition of the Nigeria Oil & Gas Conference and Exhibition, which is set to take place in person from 5 – 8 July at the ICC in Abuja, dmG Nigeria events is taking all the necessary precautions to maintain a strict standard of health and safety that meets the guidelines provided by the FCT Task Force and adheres to international best practices for in person gatherings.

The dmG events All Secure best practice guide of enhanced safety measures for organising and delivering safe and secure in person events in this new era, is available to download here for all participants to access.

With the necessary venue approvals in place, these guidelines will work in conjunction with advice from Public Health Authorities to ensure NOG is organised in accordance with local directives as well as meeting international standards.

It is important to note that due to the fluid nature of the situation, our Health & Safety (H&S) measures are under constant review. We will keep all attendees, partners and suppliers updated with any changes to these measures as they occur.

With the recent good news of COVAX now rolling out COVID vaccines in Nigeria, we eagerly anticipate welcoming you back, provided that it is safe to do so, as we continue to keep businesses informed and connected, creating vibrant marketplaces and accelerating your business through safe and secure in person events.

Yours sincerely,

Wemimo Oyelana
